The United States Supreme Court and the Rebel States.

of Winnebago County.

The Rochester (New York) Express claims to have private information that one of the judges of the United States supreme court, supposed to be Justice Nelson, has written an opinion on the legal condition of the revolted states on the conclusion of the war for the suppression of the rebellion, and that his opinion is concurred in by the whole bench, including Chief Justice Taney. The opinion is said to maintain that the states in rebellion have lost their rights as states, and must come into the Union simply as territories subject to the general government and entitled to its protection. New state organizations may be formed by the people, under the constitution and laws of congress, as in the case of other territories, but the old states cannot come into the Union with their present organization and officers still recking with the horrible crime they have committed against the national This opinion would seem to coincide with the decision of the court in the Hiawatha case, quoted by Solicitor Whiting to sustain a similar opinion which he has recently published. In that decision it is held that the rebels have been public enemies since July 13, 1861, when congress sanctioned and authorized the war, and declared its legal existence against the confederate states. As public enemies they are to be treated the same as foreign states at war with the federal government, and if conquered and subjugated, they are liable to the same consequences that would follow the subjugation of any foreign territory by the arms of the United States.

If this decision has been made by the supreme court of the United States, as the Rochester Express asserts, its importance can hardly be overestimated. It clears away all the difficulties in the way of a settlement of the slavery question when the war is ended, as well as questions connected with the confiscation of real and personal property.

We do not quite credit the assestion that Judge Taney has concurred in this decision. He has so long been the shield and protection of slavery on the supreme bench that it is rather improbable that he should desert the institution in whose interest he has labored so persistently and unscrupulously. But these are days of radical changes and sudden conversions. The civil war now raging is causing tremendous overturns in the opinions of men, and will destroy institutions and systems which were supposed to be resting upon a sure foundation. So, it may be possible that even Judge Taney, as well as Butler, Logan, Dickinson, and hosts of others of like political faith, have come to the conclusion that slavery must die that the nation may have an enduring peace, and that those who stand in the way of such a consummation, will send their names down to posterity, with the curses of millions; while those who aid in giving this people a peace, based upon liberty and justice, will be embalmed in history as the benefactors of their Fo

The Unconstitutionality of the Greek Fire.

Beauregard having protested against throwing shells filled with Greek fire into Charleston by federal cannon, the copper heads will have to follow suit throughut the country. When the same sincere and ingenuous patriot told them to call Union men "abolitionists," they obeyed with alacrity. We shall, therefore, have them howling in full chorus about the inhumanity and barbarity of Greek fire. They will have it not only an uncivilized and unchristian proceeding, but unconstitutional. That will be their best grip. " It is unconfore it is unconstitutional to use it." "It is him."

But something is said about war in the EURNING OF LAWRENCE, KANSAS. private letter received in this city to day: fense, the big guns in our batteries were John F Bradley constitution, and guns and vessels of war were used in the times of the fathers of tha constitution, therefore these instruments of destruction may be constitutional, but the Greek fire, never-it is a new thing un. known to the fathers-it can't be constitutional, and Beauregard was right in protesting against it." So reason the copperheads, and such is their constitutional lingo whenever anything is proposed which hurts the rebels. Loyal men would have no regrets if Greek fire were hurled into every rebel den in the south. Gen. Gilmore warns them to surrender if they would avoid it, just as an orthodox divine would admonish a sinner in danger of that other fire which is never quenched. The advice is sound in both cases, besides being "conatitutional." Proceedings of the Council.

House party, which numbered about sixty, were safely, as they supposed, located in the Whitney House. Quantrel had chosen this place for his headquarters, and swore he would shoot any one of his men who attempted to molest any of them. Many people, knowing this, slipped in and were saved. One brute came up on his horse while the party were going from one place to the other, and was told by one of Quantrel's head men, named Porter, that he would kill him if he did not dry up. Eve-thing went on very well while Quantrel was there; he promised that he would be the last man to leave town, and none of his men should return. He took a lunch, and finally ordered the command to move out of the city, which they did.

It seems that one of the party had forcibly taken possession of a gold ring from Miss Stone, and she informed Quantrel of the fact, who told the fellow if he did not hand it over he would shoot him. But Miss Stone escaped. They wanted also to kill Mr. R. S. Stevens and another man, but they made their escape through a back door to the bank of the river, where they could be protected by the few soldiers testing the re-assessed taxes, in which he scross the river. DAILY GAZETTE.

BURNING OF LAWRENCE, KANSAS. Tale of Horrors—The Flendish Outrages by the Guerrilla Sepoys—Massacre of Citizens—Appailing Scenes and Incidents.

From the Leavenworth Bulletin, August 22. We publish the following statement written for the Bulletin by Mr. Kempf, an attache of the provost marshal's office, at Law. rence. It was written hurriedly; giving simply plain facts as witnessed by him. His scape from death was miracolous: Yesterday, the 21st of August, about 42 clock, the citizens of Lawrence were surprised to hear a body of cavalry ride rapidly towards the Kausas river. As soon as the first of these mee reached the river by Massachusetts street and the streets east and west of it, they raised a shout, which was repeated down the streats as far as it was possible to hear. The citizens, startled by the noise, rushed into the streets to ascertain the cause. Many of the citizens were then shot down. With the quickness of lightning the news spread over town that the accursed Quantrel, with his bushwhack. ers, was in town. The surprise was so complete that it was utterly impossible for the citizens to undertake anything whatever for their defense. The few who heroically ran out with their guns, were quickly mur-dered, as were, in fact, all who showed themselves during the first half hour. The hills above and the woods below the town were well gnarded by guerrilies, so that it was impossible for persons living on the outskirts of town to make their escape.— Everything was done by command, or well understood beforehand by these murderers. After they had spread over town they commenced to plunder in the most deliberate manner conceivable. Every store was broken open by a few men, guarded against sur-prise from the inside. The first thing they ooked after was the safe, then every thing else of value. Every safe was bursted open when they could not get the key; but they were so well informed about every thing, that they sent, in several instances, to the private residences of persons, demanding the keys for the safes in the stores. Well informed persons think they took three hundred thousand dollars in cash along with them. It would seem they took more .-They had been in town some time before they commenced burning the buildings.

At about seven o'clock they set fire to the court house. We heard several explsions, which, at a distance, would have south we could not see from the houses we were in. During all this time citizens were being mardered everywhere. Germans and ne groes, when caught, were shot immediately. Many persons were shot down after they had been taken prisoners, and had been assured that they would not be hurt if they would surrender. Messrs. Trask and Baker, and two other citizens were so taken, and while being marched toward the river as prisoners, after being assured that they would not be harmed, some guerrillas asked their names. Mr. Trask gave the names, when they were immediately fired upon, and all four killed on the spot, except Mr. Baker, who is not expected to live, however. Mr. Dix had been taken prisoner and his house set on fire, when one of the fiends got a thousand dollars and handed it over. He was told to march toward the river, and had not proceeded twenty steps when he was shot dead from behind. Mr. Hampson, clerk of the provost marshal, had a revolver and tried to defend the few things he had saved from the Johnson House .-His wife interfered, and they told him it he would surrender he should be treated as a prisoner and be safe from harm. He surrendered, and was immediately shot from behind, the ball entering near the spine and coming out below the kidneys in front.

been taken for cannon shots. We heard some persons coming down the street, commanding their friends to burn the stores;

and we soon heard the crackling of the fire, and saw most of the buildings east and west of us wrapped in flames. To the

The wound is not considered fatal. In one instance the wife and daughter of a man threw themselves over his body, bezging for his life. But one of the murderers deliberately thrust his revolver down between the two women and killed the man. Before ten o'clock the body of the guerrillas left with their plunder, leaving a guard over the prisoners in town, and a few stragglers. The few persons wounded were wounded at this time by the passing fiends. In the early part of the day most persons were fired at from very near and killed instantly. One of the first persons out was Colonel Deitzler. Mr. Williamson and myself help ed him carry off the dead. The sight that met us when coming out, I cannot describe. I have read of outrages committed in the so-called dark ages; and horrible as they appeared to me, they sank into insignificance in comparison to what I was then compelled to witness. Well-known citizens were lying in front of the spot where their stores or residences had been, completely pasted. The bodies were crisp and nearly black. We thought at first that they were all negroes, till we recognized some of them. In handling the dead bodies pieces of roasted flesh would remain in our hands. Soon our strength failed us in this horrible and sickening work. Many could not help crying like children. Women and little children were all over town hunting for their husbands and fathers; and sad indeed was the scene when they did finally find them among the corpses laid out for recognition. I cannot describe the horrors; language fails me, and the recollection of the scenes I witnessed makes me sick when I am compelled to repeat them: The town is a complete rain. The whole of the business part, and all good private residences are burned down. Everything of value was taken along by the fiends. No store is left, and it is necessary that the good people of Leavenworth send provisions immediately. Persons who were rich yesterday are now utterly destitute.

AT THE ELDRIDGE HOUSE.

One of the first places surrounded was the Eldridge House. It seems the guerrillas demanded a surrender before firing into it. After a short consultation the occu-pants concluded to surrender, and a white flag (sheet) appeared from the balcony, which was greeted with cheers. Quantrel was sent for and made his appearance.-On being asked what were his intentions he replied "plunder;" he finally agreed that they should be protected, and gave them an escort to a place of safety. The last named place not being found safe on Continued on 2d page.]

E. F. SPAULDING, Clerk pro tem. Janesville, August 27, 1863. d2d

If it will relieve the anxiety of the "Monitor," we are authorized to state that Mr. Matteson's visit to Janesville is purely of a private business character; that he has been detained longer than he expected when he left his home; that he has visited Madison on business and remained some six hours; that he has some very important pecuniary business at Fond du Lac, and expects to visit there to morrow, and after attending to his business there he designs visiting a brother farmer residing at Waucousta; and then he expects to go to Washington county where he has some farm mortgages for a client in New York for collection. After this he designs to go to Kenosha, where he has a sister residing, and a nephew who he supposess is on a visit from Grant's army, and as he is a brave soldier he is quite anxious to meet him. Mr. M. would like very much to visit Green Bay, as he has heard much of it, but has never seen it. He thinks that he will not have time to visit Milwaukee. Mr. heard nothing of the Monitor or its propri etors there, and he knows very little of the local politics of Wisconsin, and cares less, although he has the feeling common to all Union-loving men, of seeing the copperhead democracy prostrated at the coming election. In conclusion, Mr. M. submits to the conductors of the Monitor, as he assumes they have the instincts of gentlemen, whether it is quite decent to make attacks on any one who is visiting the state purely on private business?

The Hon. N. P. Tallmadge gives in his adhesion to the war democracy.

New Names .- The Green Bay Advocate publishes additional names in Brown county to the call of the war democracy, among them Col. B. II. Mooers, one of the earliest and staunchest democrats in Wisconsin.

Col. Bragg, of the 6th Wisconsin, was among the speakers at an immense Union meeting at Crestline, Ohio, on the 22d inst.

DR. SWHET'S INFALLIBLE LINIMENT FOR HORSES is an invalid by any, in all cases of Lamenus arising from Sprais. Brusses or Wrenching, its effect is magical and certain. Harness or Saddio Galls, Scratches, Mango, Ac., it will also cure speedily.— Spavin and Ringbone may be easily prevented and cared in their incipient stages, but confirmed cross are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No case of the kind, however, is so despetate or hopeless but it may be alteriated by the Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the horse to travel with comparative ease.

Every hirse owner should have this remedy at hand, for its timely use at the first appearance of Lameness. for its timely use at the first appearance of Lameness, will effectually provent those formidable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which renderso many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

The improved condition of Military affairs and the constant succession of Victories, together with the completion of the preparations for the issue of the Four Hundred Millions of Logal Tender interest bearing notes, or Treasury Notes, renders the issuing of further long or permanent Loans at present, exceedingly doubtful. The Loans of the Government, maturing in 1831, are now selling at six per cent. pre-mium. These would advance to 10 or 15 per cent, preminim. These would advance to to or to per construction, if the Secretary of the Tressury should discontinue the sales of the 0 20's; and the 5-20's themselves would soon command a handsome premium, should the demand for Government Loans, as the basis for banking or for investment, be at all active. It is possible that the becretary of the Treasury may receive sub-scriptions to the 5 20 Lean for a longer period,—should there be any delay in the preparation of the notes for the supplying of the Treasury with funds, or should be in view of the manifest benefits to the country from the present popular mode of distributing the loans of the nation among the people—or to encourage the formation of the New Banks—decide it to be wise and judicious to turther extend the time of subscriptions to the of course, are miknown; therefore, the salest and wis-cat course is to subscribe at once, whilst a six per cent.

The United States Supreme Court and the Rebel States.

The Rochester (New York) Express claims to have private information that one of the judges of the United States supreme court, supposed to be Justice Nelson, has written an opinion on the legal condition of the revolted states on the conclusion of the war for the suppression of the rebellion, and that his opinion is concurred in by the whole beach, including Chief Justice Taney. The opinion is said to maintain that the states in rebellion have lost their rights as states, and must come into the Union simply as territories subject to the general government and entitled to its protection. New state organizations may be formed by the people, under the constitution and laws of congress, as in the case of other territories. but the old states cannot come into the Union with their present organization and officers still reeking with the horrible crime they have committed against the national life.

This opinion would seem to coincide with the decision of the court in the Hiawatha case, quoted by Solicitor Whiting to sustain a similar opinion which he has recently published. In that decision it is held that the rebels have been public enemies since July 13, 1861, when congress sanctioned and authorized the war, and declared its legal existence against the confederate states. As public enemies they are to be treated the same as foreign states at war with the federal government, and if conquered and subjugated, they are liable to the same consequences that would follow the subjugation of any foreign territory by the arms of the United States.

If this decision has been made by the supreme court of the United States, as the Rochester Express asserts, its importance can hardly be overestimated. It clears away all the difficulties in the way of a settlement of the slavery question when the war is ended, as well as questions connected with the confiscation of real and personal property.

We do not quite credit the assestion that Judge Taney has concurred in this decision He has so long been the shield and protection of slavery on the supreme bench that it is rather improbable that he should desert the institution in whose interest he has labored so persistently and unscrupulously. But these are days of radical changes and sudden conversions. The civil war now raging is causing tremendous overturns in the opinions of men, and will destroy institutions and systems which were supposed to be resting upon a sure foundation. So, it may be possible that even Judge Taney, as well as Butler, Logan, Dickinson, and hosts of others of like political faith, have come to the conclusion that slavery must die that the nation may have an enduring peace, and that those who stand in the way of such a consummation, will send their names down to posterity, with the curses of millions; while those who aid in giving this people a peace based upon liberty and justice, will be embalmed in history as the benefactors of their country.

The Unconstitutionality of the Greek

Beauregard having protested against throwing shells filled with Greek fire into Charleston by federal cannon, the copperheads will have to follow suit throughut the country. When the same sincore and ingenuous patriot told them to call Union men "abolitionists," they obeyed with alacrity. We shall, therefore, have them howling in fall chorus about the inhumanity and barbarity of Greek fire. They will have it not only an uncivilized and unchristian proceeding, but unconstitutional. That will be their best grip. "It is unconstitutional," say they, "and destructive of the rights of the south." They will be able to prove its unconstitutionality by their practising on a hobby horse for his return usual method, viz: "You can't find the words Greek fire in the constitution-there- pany of prominent clergymen to dine with fore it is unconstitutional to use it." "It is him." doubtful whether Parrot guns and monitors are constitutional for the same reason, you stoop for is worth picking up.

constitution, and guns and vessels of war were used in the times of the fathers of the constitution, therefore these instruments of destruction may be constitutional, but the Greek fire, never—it is a new thing un. rnown to the fathers—it can't be constitusional, and Beauregard was right in protesting against it." So reason the copperneads, and such is their constitutional lingo whenever anything is proposed which hurts the rebels. Loyal men would have no regrets if Greek fire were hurled into every rebel den-in the south. Gen. Gilmore warns them to surrender if they would avoid it, just as an orthodox divine would admonish a sinner in danger of that other fire which is never quenched. The advice is sound in both cases, besides being "constitutional."

After the second move, the Eldridge House party, which numbered about sixty, were safely, as they supposed, located in the Whitney House. Quantrel had chosen this place for his headquarters, and swore he would shoot any one of his men who attempted to molest any of them. Many people, knowing this, slipped in and were saved. One brute came up on his horse while the party were going from one place to the other, and was told by one of Quantrel's head men, named Porter, that he would kill him if he did not dry up. Evething went on very well while Quantrel was there; he promised that he would be the last man to leave town, and none of his men should return. He took a lunch, and finally ordered the command to move out of the city, which they did. After mounting his horse, he lifted his ast to the ladies, and bowing politely, said :

Ladies, I now bid you good morning. I hope when we meet again, it will be under more favorable circumstances." Putting spurs to his horse, he was soon out of sight. le was dressed in a dark colored shirt, blue blonse, and had on a black hat. After Quantrel left, four of his men came back and said they were determined to kill some one out of the crowd-didn't much care who; that they had been promised the privilege of killing all they pleased, and brough some reason, Quantrel had been humbugged. One of the party said he had ad a sister killed in the prison at Kansas City, another said he had a sister shot by Union men; the third said he wanted to kill Miss Lydia Stone, the landlord's daughter; the fourth was a sober man, and soemed anxious to help save the lives of those in the house. It seems that one of the party had forcibly taken possession of a gold ring from Miss Stone, and she informed Quantrel of the fact, who told the fellow it he did not hand it over he would shoot him. But Miss Stone escaped. They wanted al so to kill Mr. R. S. Stevens and another man, but they made their escape through a back door to the bank of the river, where they could be protected by the few soldiers across the river. The men prowled through the house, but did not find what they wanted. Finally they ordered all in the house to form a line outside. This was done .-One of them then commenced asking their names and where they were born. One gentlemen answered, Central Ohio. There were many heroic deeds performed by the ladies. In many instances they laced themselves between their husbands and fathers and danger when the drunken fiends held cocked pistols at them. There is no doubt but that Quantrel had spies at Lawrence. One man at the Elfridge House acted as a guide, and pointed out prominent men and things.

One fellow got Captain Banks' uniform and made quite a display with it. A riding party of two ladies and gentlemen were met just outside the city, and compelled to go back. Quantrel invited the ladies to ride beside him into the city, and they did so.

Gen. Collamore was suffocated to death by damps in his well. When he first discovered the guerrillas in town, be went into the well, and his hired man, named Keith, covered it up; after the trouble was over, the man went to the well and found the General at the bottom. He went down, and unfortunately met the same fate. A neighbor, named Lowe, passing along, went down to rescue both of them, and was also It was peculiarly noticeable that the fury

KANSAS CITY, August 27. Quantrel's men are scattered in their fastnesses throughout the border counties, and are still being hunted by all the availa ble troops from all parts of this district. Many of them have abandoned their worn out horses and taken to the bush afoot They were all remounted at Lawrence with horses captured there, leading their own back packed with stolen goods.

These led horses and stolen goods were nearly all abandoned in the chase, before they got far into Missouri. Over three hundred horses have already been taken by our troops, including some of those captured at Lawrence. Most of the goods and most of the money stolen has been retaken, and 998; 7.30s 107; 5s 65s107. will, as far as possible, be restored.

Reports of twenty one more killed have been received since yesterday, meking a total of about eighty, which will probably be largely increased before any considerable part of our troops will be withdrawn from the pursuit. No prisoners have been taken, and none will be. All houses in which Lawrence goods heve been found have been destroyed, as well as all houses of known guerrilias, wherever our troops have gone. Gen. Ewing intends to destroy the houses

Sum-ter was reduced because it was in the way of the navy. Admiral Dahlgren has, as yet, made no advances towards completing the work which Gilmore has so gloriously begun. The army is unable to do more. Gen. Gilmore has performed his part of the contract, and it now remains for the navy to perform their part of the work. A week's delay may enable the rebels to replace Sumter by new batteries within her harbor, which will make the capture of Charleston as far off as it was before we fired the first shot against it. We have made the above Reduction in Prices with the two-fold view of benefitting the public and ourselves. The public have been swindled by spurious machines made in imitation of ours. The metal in them from the iron casting to the smallest piece, isof poor quality. Their makers have not the means to do their work well.

They are hid away in secret places, where it would be impossible to have at their command the proper me chanical appliances. It is only by doing a great busi ness, and having extensive manufacturing establish ments, that good machines can be made at moderate prices. The best designed machines, Badly Made, are prices. The dest designed machine, healy made, are always liable to get out of order, and are sure to cost considerable trouble and money to keep them in repair. The qualities to be looked for in a machine are: certainty of correct action at all rates of speed, simplicity of construction, great durability and rapidity of operation, with the least labor. E. F. SPAULDING, Clerk pro tem. Janesville, August 27, 1863. d2d

Res If it will relieve the auxiety of the "Monitor," we are authorized to state that Mr. Matteson's visit to Janesville is purely of a private business character; that be has been detained longer than he expected when he left his home; that he has visited Madison on business and remained some six hours; that he has some very important pecuniary business at Fond du Lac, and expects to visit there to morrow, and after attending to his business there he designs visiting a brother farmer residing at Waucousta; and then he expects to go to Washington county where he has some farm mortgages for a client in New York for collection. After this he designs to go to Kenosha, where he has a sister residing, and a nephew who he supposess is on a visit from Grant's army, and as he is a brave soldier he is quite anxious to meet him. Mr. M. would like very much to visit Green Bay, as he has heard much of it, but has never seen it. He thinks that he will not have time to visit Milwaukee. Mr. M. came from Washington here, but be heard nothing of the Monitor or its proprietors there, and he knows very little of the local politics of Wisconsin, and cares less, although he has the feeling common to all Union-loving men, of seeing the copperhead democracy prostrated at the coming election. In conclusion, Mr. M. submits to the conductors of the Monitor, as he assumes they have the instincts of gentlemen,

NEW NAMES .- The Green Bay Advocate publishes additional names in Brown county to the call of the war democracy, among them Col. B. H. Mooers, one of the earliest and staunchest democrats in Wisconsin.

Col. Bragg, of the 6th Wisconsin, was among the speakers at an immense Union meeting at Crestline, Ohio, on the 22d just.

To Horse Owners.

DR. SWEETS INFALUBLE LINMENT FOR HORSES is unrivalled by any, in all cases of Lameness, arising from Sprait a, Brutess or Wrenching, its sfleet is magical and certain. Herness or Saddle Galls, Scratches, Nange, &c., it will also once speedily. Spavin and Ringtone may be usely prevented and cared in their incipiont stages, but configured areas are beyond the possibility of a radical care. No case of the End, however, is so desprasts or hopoless but it may be allowated by the Linment, and its faithful sprinciple will always remove the Lameness, and embit the horse to travel with comparative case.

Every horse comor should have this remody at hand, for its timely use at the first appearance of Lameness, will effectually prevent those formidable diseases monthoned, to which all horses are hable, and which renderso many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.
